BOYISH CHARGE UP SAN JUAN HILL.

War Heroes Impersonated at the 78th Birthday Reception to Father Malone.

PATRIOTISM THE KEYNOTE.

Helen Gould, Clara Barton and Roosevelt Represented by the Parish Children.

A patriotic reception commemorative of the seventy-eighth birthday of the Rev. Sylvester Malone, the venerable rector of the Church of St. Peter and Paul, in Wythe avenue, Williamsburg, and Rector of the State University, was given last night in the McAdams Memorial building, in Berry street.

An entertainment was given by children, and the characters they assumed represented men and women who gained renown during the war with Spain. Governor Roosevelt, who had been trained under the direction of Sergeant Bernhart, United States Navy, gave a stirring representation of the famous charge up San Juan Hill.

Miss Clara Barton and Helen Gould were also represented.

Father Malone presented diplomas to the twelve graduates from the parochial school and made a patriotic address, during which he said that this country was not only the noblest on the face of the earth, but the only country where the oppressed had found a haven of refuge.

ONE MAN STOPS A RIOT.

The Men Struck Before Making any Demand for Higher Wages.

THEN HOWLED FOR $1.50.

Gathering from All Parts of the Works, They Made for Headquarters with Dire Threats.

Eighteen hundred men who are employed in building the new Jerome Park reservoir went on a strike yesterday. A riot that almost culminated in bloodshed was the result. Mounted policemen were massed all around the Park. Residents of the neighborhood do not dare leave their homes, and a reign of terror exists in the usually peaceful Bronx River Valley.

For more than two years Contractor J. B. McDonald has kept nearly two thousand men hard at work blowing up the rocks and hills in the work of reducing the three hundred acres of Jerome Park race track to a level low enough to serve a reservoir for all of Greater New York.

It is a tremendous undertaking, which it will take four or five more years to carry to completion.

Part of the stone taken from the excavation at the reservoir is carried to the roadways and crushed and part is taken on cars and dumped in Pelham Bay swamp, five miles away, on Westchester Creek. The laborers are not massed in one place, but are scattered in gangs over a distance of some six or seven miles. Nearly all of the men are Italians. Only about one in two hundred can speak a word of English. Some of them live in cheap boarding houses along the roadways, but by far the greater number are sheltered in the former race track stables, which the contractor has converted into neatly white-washed dormitories. An old mansion within the limits of the reservoir has been turned into a hospital, where the men get free medical attendance and care when they are ill.

There are no skilled mechanics among the laborers. They all receive $1.25 per day. This has been the rate ever since the work began, and up to yesterday Mr. McDonald never had any reason to think they were dissatisfied with it.

They have no union or other organization. So far as any one knows they never had any recognized leaders. Yet at 10 o'clock the men who were at work in the dump in the swamp suddenly left the cars and, shouting "We strike now!" started up the Fordham and Pelham road. The few whose English vocabulary would permit explained to the astonished foreman that $1.25 was too small an amount for a day's work in the midst of exploding dynamite cartridges and falling rocks.

The women stay on strike until Mr. McDonald consented to pay them $1.50 per day. They did not attempt to argue the point, but started double quick up the road to Jerome Park.

Several Italian women who act as housekeepers for some of the boarding houses joined them at the head of the procession. The mob had apparently no leader and no very definite object. They were wildly excited and chanted and cheered alternately. Every man carried some sort of an extemporized weapon. Some waved pick handles as clubs and others made all kinds of threats of what they would do with their shovels.

In its progress the mob was constantly augmented by the straggling groups of workmen in the roadway whom they met and compelled to follow them.

They were about 1,200 strong by the time Bronxville was reached. Women screaming and shouting, and men hurled closed the doors of their shops. Meanwhile the foreman had driven over hurriedly in his buggy and informed Mr. McDonald that the strikers were coming.

He called up the Kingsbridge police station. Captain Schmittberger was attending to a court case downtown, but Inspector Grant was in the station at the time. He jumped into his buggy and drove full speed to Jerome Park, followed by half a dozen mounted policemen. Close behind came a squad of the reserves on foot. They arrived at the park entrance just as the strikers were coming up the railroad track.

By this time they were about fourteen hundred strong.

"Kill the boss!" shrieked a woman at the head of the procession.

One big striker attempted to strike an Italian foreman with his shovel. Policemen promptly arrested him.

Over on the hill side Mr. McDonald was standing near the entrance. He was surrounded by a group of excited men and screaming women and never moved a muscle.

He waited until they were well within earshot and then said quietly: "Now you get out of here, quick. They looked at his determined calm face and slunk away. Somewhere in the Park is stored a large quantity of dynamite. It was feared that the strikers might destroy the reservoirs and do untold damage with it to the contractor's property.

Later came Captain Schmittberger and more policemen. His Italian spies told him late last night that the strikers were gathering at the dumping ground and intended to wreck any stone trains that might be attempted to run thence. More trouble is feared to-day.

Four Drowned in Swollen River. Benjamin, Tex., May 8.—A terrific storm, with rain, approaching a waterport, swept over the country about thirty miles west of here yesterday, and the family of George Humphreys, composed of four persons, was drowned by the sudden overflow of a branch of the Brazos River.

Price of Paint Going Up. Toledo, Ohio, May 8.—P. F. Whalen, one of the largest paint manufacturers in the country, stated to-day that a meeting has been called in Chicago to raise the price of paint all over the country. He also stated that a combine may result from the meeting.

Matrimonial Paper Stopped Divorce. Doniphan, Kan., May 8.—District Judge Stuart has refused to grant a divorce to Ellen Phillips from P. O. Phillips because their marriage was brought about by an advertisement in a matrimonial paper. Mrs. Phillips came from Arkansas.

CHINA ASKS FOR ENTRANCE INTO CUBA.

Washington, May 8.—Secretary of State Hay has received representatives from the Chinese Government protesting against the proposed prevention of Chinese immigration to Cuba. The Chinese Ministry, through the First Secretary of Legation, has also entered a protest against certain regulations of the military government in Cuba which appear to fall heavily upon the Chinese residents.

Protest was made specifically to that order of the Surgeon-General's department for the city of Havana which required the Chinese residents to move from the city proper to the suburbs.

It is said here that this was a sanitary necessity and was not aimed at the Chinese because of race prejudice. The representations of China have been forwarded to Secretary Gage at Hot Springs, Va., with the question of extending the immigration laws to Cuba so as to exclude Chinese is largely one for the Treasury to determine nothing final will be done until Secretary Gage has been heard from.

The courtship period for Ayer's Sarsaparilla

passed long since, when it won the confidence and esteem of thoughtful men and women 50 years ago.

You need have no doubts, if, when you go to buy Sarsaparilla, you simply say the old name

"AYER'S"

That is the kind that cured your fathers and their fathers before them, and it is the kind that will cure you. Other Sarsaparillas may look like it, may even taste like it, but somehow or other they haven't the knack of curing people that Ayer's has. Just try one bottle of Ayer's today.

THE KIDNEYS CLEANSED and STRENGTHENED

By removing the impure matters which hinder their action, KUTNOW'S POWDER restores weak and congested kidneys to a strong, healthy condition.

When the stomach, liver and bowels are deranged the blood becomes charged with waste substances, which the kidneys have to remove from the system. They act as filters for eliminating injurious matter from the blood. Frequently, however, this extra labor makes them weak and congested, producing gravel, Bright's disease, or other ailments. Diseases of the kidneys are, therefore, due to derangements of the stomach, liver or bowels. When the degeneration of the kidneys has reached a certain point, death must soon follow; but it is very seldom that the kidneys become permanently ruined, as they are strong enough naturally to last for two hundred years, and it requires a good deal of careless eating and drinking to injure them beyond repair.

The proper remedy for kidney diseases is KUTNOW'S Improved Effervescent POWDER, which has such a cleansing, healing and strengthening effect on all the inner organs that thousands of sufferers from kidney ailments whose lives were despaired of have been restored to complete health by a course of the Powder.

If you suffer from gravel, smarting and scalding sensations, excessive uric acid formations, backaches, swelling of the feet, nervousness, cold feet, and other disagreeable accompaniment of kidney and bladder disorders, make free use of Kutnow's Powder, which is certain to do good.

SAMPLES SENT FREE.

For seven days from this date Kutnow Bros., Ltd., 853 Broadway, New York City, will send a sample of Kutnow's Improved Effervescent Powder, free and postpaid, to every adult applicant who mentions the N. Y. Journal when writing or calling. Sold by all reliable druggists. Positively refuse substitutes. They are worthless; if not injurious.

The Wanamaker Store

This morning, a showing in Summer hats,—light and airy things as Summer hats should be—speaking of nothing more substantial than flowers and sunshine.

A large assortment and one exquisite to the eye without compensatory purse-aches.

Buying and Selling Shoes

THIS is on shoe matters in general, and our shoe matters in particular.

The shoe store here is a marked example of the good that comes out of bigness. The race may not always be to the swift,—all the expert opinions generally lean that way,—but there is no question that in mercantile affairs the best is to the biggest.

Ours is one of the very largest retail shoe businesses in America, and is getting bigger every day. There are very few, if any, jobbing houses that sell more shoes than we retail between our two stores. Our retail prices can consequently be made to approach, and often to be made, less than the jobber's prices.

There are more things than merely lowest prices to be considered, and the same reasons that make our prices littler, make our selections the best. Our very best shoes have no superiors in the world, as shoes. Our lowest prices have no superiors in the world as value-producers. So there you are,—not only the best if you want it, but the cheapest, and—best of all, the combination of those two,—the best cheapest.

We have shoes at $1.50 and shoes at $7. In other words, a complete shoe store. There is nothing in footwear for babies, children, women or men that is worth having, that we have not. And cheapest.
